
More than 500 tequilas & 300 restaurants

Posted by The Tequila Guy - 2008/05/05 16:41

I've been collecting lots of information and hadn't updated the database lately. For Cinco de Mayo, I knew I had to put it in there.

Now there are more than 500 tequilas and 300 restaurants in the database.

I know there are more out there, so let me know what you have.

Happy Cinco and Enjoy Responsibly.

=====

Re:More than 500 tequilas & 300 restaurants

Posted by PRJack - 2008/05/16 20:58

It's a great list! Thanks for that!!

I passed along a few that aren't on the list (the email likely got lost in the mists of time!). Here they are again.

salud!

- Los Arango Reposado NOM 1368
 - Insignia Reposado NOM 1465
(Known as Tequila Balluarte in the US)
 - Herencia Historico Anejo NOM 1124
- =====

Re:More than 500 tequilas & 300 restaurants

Posted by SirGringo6 - 2008/05/19 04:03

I have 2 on not on the list as well

Hussong'sMR Resposado NOM 1489

Embajador Palisciense Resposado NOM 1420

Post edited by: SirGringo6, at: 2008/05/19 04:05

=====

Re:More than 500 tequilas & 300 restaurants

Posted by The Tequila Guy - 2008/05/23 22:22

Awesome!!!

I'll check them out and add them soon.

I've tasted the Insignia and it's a dynamite tequila. I've seen the Hussong's in many places. I can't find out whether it's 100% agave or not. To keep the list somewhat controllable, I'm limiting myself to 100% agave tequilas.

I'll let you know the next update.

Any restaurants that feature tequila I'm missing??

The Tequila Guy

=====

Re:More than 500 tequilas & 300 restaurants

Posted by PRJack - 2008/05/23 23:00

A restaurant you can add is

Dos Amigos, Toronto, ON, Canada

While there are several truly authentic Mexican restaurants here, only Dos Amigos has a truly worthy Tequila Selection.

There are a couple of more 'popular' spots, but they just don't have the selection. And there is one other that is supposed to be very good (with the dubious name 'Rancho Relaxo') but I haven't tested it yet so I'd rather wait and see on that one.

Re:More than 500 tequilas & 300 restaurants

Posted by SirGringo6 - 2008/05/24 16:47

I just picked up a bottle of Asom Broso Silver 100% de Agave NOM 1146 thats not on the list. Has anyone tried it. B)

Re:More than 500 tequilas & 300 restaurants

Posted by The Tequila Guy - 2008/05/26 20:23

Thanks!!

The tequilas are on the list. Some were in the database and I hadn't collected enough info about them yet.

Can't believe I overlooked AsomBroso Silver. Had the AsomBroso flight at Border Grill in Vegas (Silver, La Rosa Reposado, and the Anejo) They all were great. The Anejo had a slight hint of cherry and was incredibly smooth.

Updating the restaurants right now. Have about a dozen to add and hope to get them up soon as well.

Enjoy a long and relaxing summer.

The Tequila Guy

Re:More than 500 tequilas & 300 restaurants

Posted by DCadvantages - 2008/06/01 09:15

2 quick notes...Asombroso Platino is on the list...Its a great tequila...won double gould at SF in 2007...Also, Casa Noble Anejo is not limited to just 2,000 cases...It is limited to 2,000 cases a year. It is only a collectors item, if you have some from the first few batchings from a few years back. That tequila will be around to enjoy for a long time. The idea behind the 2,000 cases is to create the thought that they limit production and take extra care in making their product. Which they do, and it shows. This Anejo is one of the best around...

Re:More than 500 tequilas & 300 restaurants

Posted by SirGringo6 - 2008/06/01 16:33

DCadvantages, have you ever tried Don julio 1942? it also has a limit of 2000 cases a year with only five bottles sent to my state of Michigan a year if you haven't enjoyed its splendors add this to your special occasions with the best of friends list. For the price of this Tequila it tops the taste of many really high end Brands. B)

Post edited by: SirGringo6, at: 2008/06/01 16:34

Re:More than 500 tequilas & 300 restaurants

Posted by DCadvantages - 2008/06/01 19:25

I have had 1942, we offer it at the aforementioned Border Grill. A few shorts on DJ 1942...This tequila is actually aged anywhere from 2 to 3 years. The people at Don Julio do not age the DJ 1942 or the DJ Real for any set amount of time. They use a panel of tasting experts to decide when their Extra Anejos are ready for bottling. If you enjoy DJ 1942, you might want to try Real. It is aged in the neighborhood of 5 years, with the expert paneling, deciding when it is ready. They are both very fine tequilas in the Extra Anejo category...However, for the price point, I actually like Casa Noble Anejo better at around $99 a bottle. Also, look into El Tesoro Paridiso for $110ish along with The El Tesoro 70th Anniversary for $125ish. I believe both exceed 1942 as an extra anejo for the price point. Enjoy

=====

Re:More than 500 tequilas & 300 restaurants

Posted by SirGringo6 - 2008/06/04 00:48

DCadvantages, you are the 3rd Tequila expert that has suggested Casa Noble to me. Now I'm going to have to work a couple of side jobs and buy that experience worth purchasing. Thanks for your input Amigo.

=====

Re:More than 500 tequilas & 300 restaurants

Posted by PRJack - 2008/06/09 21:35

It is totally worth it. I first tried CN Cristal several months back and was floored at what a wonderful Blanco that is. And at our tasting we had the full line of CN products and all were quite stellar!

Post edited by: PRJack, at: 2008/06/09 21:35

=====